President Of France Falls From Window Of Moving Train; Walks To Nearest Station; Slightly Injured

PORTSMOUTH, OHIO, May 24.—Monsieur Deschanel, president of the French republic, fell from a window of his train when it was a short distance from here last night.

The train was moving at the time, but after his fall M. Deschanel walked a mile and a quarter in the darkness until he met a track worker.

The workman accompanied the president to a signal station nearby and telephoned to this city for an automobile which arrived within half an hour.

When he approached the track worker the injured man said: "I was on the presidential train and fell out of it while it was moving. That which will surprise you more, however, is the fact I am Monsieur Deschanel, president of the republic."

M. Deschanel upon his arrival here received first medical attention some two or three hours after the accident. Physicians found he had suffered no injuries sufficient to cause anxiety, although he was bruised and lacerated. As a precautionary measure, anti-tetanus serum was injected by a surgeon.

President Deschanel explained that he had been unable to sleep in his compartment of the private car in which he was traveling because of the heat and that at about 11 o'clock last night, shortly after the train had pulled out of Mont Argis he tried to open a window to secure more ventilation. The window stuck and M. Deschanel said he applied all his strength to open it. Then suddenly the window gave way and he pitched out of the car on to the track in the darkness, the train going on.

The president had suffered a severe attack of grippe Saturday night and it had been questioned for a time if the journey to Mont Argis, where he was to dedicate a monument to Senator Raymond, a French aviator who was killed during the war, should not be cancelled. The president, however, had insisted upon making the journey.

It was because of his illness that all the windows of the presidential compartment had been tightly closed. At noon today it was announced here that the president's condition was as satisfactory as possibly could be.

The doctors had found scratches upon his face, hands and legs and some bruises upon his body, but no injury of a serious nature. (Continued on Page Six)

'WOOD'S OHIO AND ILLINOIS CAMPAIGN COST MOST'--HITCHCOCK

PROBE OF CAMPAIGN EXPENSES IS OPENED

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 24.—Frank H. Hitchcock, manager for General Leonard Wood, was the first witness today before the senate committee investigating expenditures in the presidential nomination campaign.

Mr. Hitchcock said that so far as he knew the largest sum spent in any state by the Wood organization, was $15,000 in New Jersey. He added that the next largest was $12,500 in Maryland.

Mr. Hitchcock said that in New York as in a number of other states, the Wood supporters conducted their own campaign in their own way, without giving assistance from the Wood organization.

The witness referred the committee to the treasurer of the Wood campaign, before Mr. Hitchcock was called. Chairman Rogers explained the purpose of the inquiry.

"There is no intention," he said, "to do injury to any of the various candidates for the presidency in any way. The question of the source of contributions to presidential campaigns and expenditures of such, is a perfectly legitimate subject of inquiry in congress. We appreciate that this is a busy time for campaign managers, and we shall try to accommodate them in every way consistent with finishing the inquiry at an early date."

Mr. Hitchcock identified himself as one of the managers of General Wood's campaign.

"Who are the others?" Chairman Rogers asked.

William C. Proctor is the general manager," the witness replied, "while assistants in charge of various sections are the Representative Norman Gould of New York; Thomas C. Miller, and Senator Moses, of New Hampshire."

Mr. Hitchcock said that in Michigan the Wood campaign was "financed by real people," without any call on the Wood organization. Calcutt Fred Allen, of Detroit, he said, was the state chairman.

Hamilton Kane, Republican national committeeman in New Jersey, took charge of the Wood expenditures in that state the witness testified, adding that all of the money used in the state was donated for under the direct primary law.

Mr. Hitchcock said he could not do more than to campaign contributions as it had been understood when he joined the Wood organization that he was not to assist in the financing of any individuals, he added.

GOVERNMENT'S GROSS LOSS ON RAILROADS WAS $900,478,000

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 24.—The government's gross loss in operation of railroads during federal control was $900,478,000, according to the final report of Swager Sberley, railroad administration director of finance. Of this total $677,513,000 was chargeable directly to the excess of operating expenses over revenues and refunds for the "class one" roads, Mr. Sberley said.

Smaller lines, sleeping car companies and inland waterways added $12,460,000 to this total.

Smoot Complains Of Commission's Activities Being Used To Defeat Him For Re-Election

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 24.—Charges that a federal trade commission investigation of the Utah-Illinois Sugar Company was being used in an effort to defeat him for re-election, were made in the senate today by Senator Smoot, Republican, Utah. Although Senator Smoot said he had only a nominal stock interest in the company, he declared the commission's activities were being directed against his political interests.

Senator Smoot read copies of telegrams alleged to have passed between W. H. Beer, attorney for the commission in the Utah-Illinois Company's investigation and George E. Sanders of Salt Lake City, in which Mr. Beer asked Sanders for advice regarding his movements and departure from Utah. The alleged reply of Mr. Sanders advised Mr. Beer not to be "in too big a hurry to finish your case, as public sentiment is fast changing, and at present entirely for government prosecution."

"Sugar magnates, anxious for you to get through," the reply continued, "should keep you on job. If you keep going for two months, it will cost Smoot his senate seat. Better kill time with Washington authorities."

Months ago, Senator Smoot said he was advised that the trade commission planned to investigate the Utah-Illinois concern just before the election, and that among other causes assigned was that it would help defeat him for re-election.

Smoot's charges, however, are the fact I am Monsieur Deschanel, president of the republic."

M. Deschanel upon his arrival here received first medical attention some two or three hours after the accident. Physicians found he had suffered no injuries sufficient to cause anxiety, although he was bruised and lacerated. As a precautionary measure, anti-tetanus serum was injected by a surgeon.

Jap Troops In Siberia To Remain

TOKYO, May 24.—(By The Associated Press)—The situation in the far east is still too unsettled to permit the withdrawal of Japanese forces from Siberia, said the imperial address read by the emperor at the annual meeting of the Japanese red cross today.

Continuing, the address said "the general condition of the work was such as to make it impossible to foretell its future development. It is therefore highly desirable, the address added that the society redouble its efforts in formulating plans best suited to the demands of the times."

Owing to the emperor's illness the emperor read the address.

Attempts To Slay Prosecutor

CHICAGO, May 24.—Detectives today sought to unravel the mystery surrounding two attempts yesterday on the life of Maclay Hogue, state's attorney. From a post in a vacant house across the street from the Hogue residence, two rifle shots were fired at Francis J. Hogue, 15 year old youth, who strikingly resembles his father.

In connection with the attacks, Mr. Hogue revealed that since prosecution of the men charged with the murder of Maurice (Boss) Enright, labor leader, was begun, he and his assistants had received scores of threatening letters and telephone calls.

"In the last seven years, I have received hundreds of threatening letters," Mr. Hogue said, explaining that many of them came when he began prosecution after the race riots here last year; others, apparently from radicals, were received about May day, and the most recent ones were connected with the Enright murder case.

Mr. Hogue said he would not be deterred in further prosecution, adding that within the last two weeks seven men charged with murder, have been sentenced to death and that trials of 27 more will be held in the next two weeks.

Greek King Marries Boyhood Sweetheart

PARIS, May 24.—King Alexander of Greece, is reported here to have been married morganically to Mademoiselle Manos, daughter of a former aide de camp to his father, King Constantine.

The Greek legation in Paris has refused to confirm or deny this report. King Alexander's marriage is said to have been the culmination of a boyhood friendship, and occurred before he was in a direct line to the throne and while his chances for succeeding his father appeared most remote.

"The king and his wife are living at the same hotel here, and yesterday went to Versailles, where they lunched together and visited the gardens. Reports here impute the king's visit to Paris to a desire on the part of Premier Venizelos, of Greece, for a separation of the king from his reputed Morgante wife, so that he may marry a princess of royal blood. The king is said to have left Athens quite in accord with his premier's point of view but is declared to have undergone a change of mind since his arrival here.

"The marriage ceremony, it is asserted, was performed by a priest of the Greek church, but was not recorded by the metropolitan of Athens, the supreme ecclesiastical authority in Greece. This is the explanation for the fact that no record of the ceremony is available."

"Next Few Weeks Will Determine Whether Government Ownership Of Railroads Will Come Again"

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 24.—Frederick Strauss, of New York, today warned the interstate commerce commission, contending that the main thing at present is to establish a feeling of security in the minds of investors. Mr. Strauss appeared before the commission in support of the railroad request for increased freight rates.

"Government ownership would necessarily be followed by government ownership," Mr. Strauss declared, "but the people's aversion to government ownership is of no avail unless such policies are adopted as will provide for a return of private ownership."

Whether government ownership shall come against the will of the people or whether a system of private ownership shall once again obtain here, it did in the days when the American people, died here.

All Set For Salvation Army Drive

Everything is proceeding smoothly in the local field because of inadequate headquarters and lack of funds. It has been decided upon the voluntary contributions made by kind-hearted people, most of its funds being collected on the streets and in the sale of the official organ, the "War Cry." The Army has done a fine work here, much of which has never been made public. The Salvation Army never inquires as to the creed of an unfortunate, knowing no creed as it goes about its efforts to care for the suffering and needy. Its charitable work is never exploited but many a person in this city has felt the helping hand and received assistance—the needy assistance that counts so much.

As is generally known the bulk of the money will be used in the purchase of the Salvation Army's present headquarters, Eleventh and Chillicothe street and for the remodeling of the same. This will take about $14,000, leaving $5,000 to cover the necessary expenses and needs of the Army for the prosecution of its good work in Portsmouth and adjacent territory. It has been known for some time that the Army has been greatly re-will be able to do much more for the unfortunate people who are in need of assistance and who can only be reached through the good offices of the Army.

That the Salvation Army has the utmost confidence of the public at large is proven by the recent action of the United States Chamber of Commerce at its convention held at Atlantic City and which was attended by several members of the Portsmouth Chamber of Commerce. At this meeting the Salvation Army was given the unanimous endorsement of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, as is shown by the resolution adopted and which summed up in the last two paragraphs of the resolution adopted: "Whereas, The Salvation Army is proceeding with a plan of Americanization that is in keeping with the program of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States to Americanize the millions of poorest workers in our land, who are willing to become good citizens if they can only be shown how, with the same high ideals that the Salvation Army held to the American troops in France; and Whereas, The Salvation Army slogan: 'A man may be down but never out' is an ideal American thought; therefore be it

BABY NAMED LYDIA E.

Because Her Mother Was Made Well by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Brooklyn, N. Y.—"I could not write all my thanks for your blessed medicine, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I was in a very bad condition and had lost two babies. One of my good friends told me about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and after I had taken eight or ten bottles I felt like a different woman. I kept on taking it until my baby girl was born last month and we have had her christened Lydia Elizabeth. I wish you to publish my letter to benefit other women who are suffering as I was."—Mrs. KATHERINE KUEBACKE, 1086 Manhattan Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Women who suffer from any feminine ailment should not lose hope until they have tried Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

The many convincing testimonials constantly published in the newspapers ought to be proof enough for women who suffer from those distressing ills peculiar to their sex that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the medicine they need.

It is a fact that the gross earnings of the eastern railroads must be increased by approximately $500,000,000 annually as a minimum if they are to be placed upon anything like a sound financial basis, according to Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, which today addressed the commission on behalf of the eastern group of roads at the hearing on the carriers' request for increased freight rates.

Mr. Willard argued that the commission should consider the property investment accounts of the railroads as the basis for determining the valuations of the roads in order to authorize rates to yield six percent. He declared that even with increased rates to provide the additional revenue this country would have the lowest rates in the world.

Gross earnings of the railroads in the eastern group for the year ending October 31, 1919, were in excess of $2,700,000,000, Mr. Willard said, but it cost the roads about 88 percent of the gross earnings for operation which left a net income of $220,000,000, but he said if the railroads had been obliged to pay during the entire year the wages and prices now in effect, they would have had a net income of only $18,000,000, or barely more than expenses on properties representing an investment of over $9,300,000,000. "If we may assume that the railroads ought to operate on a basis not higher than 75 percent," he continued, "if they ought, as sound business concerns, to have a net income equal to 25 percent of the gross earnings, to apply for capital purposes and other corporate obligations, then on the basis of last year's business and operating with the same measure of efficiency, the eastern roads would require an increase in income to be derived from higher rates of about $545,000,000 and that is the amount the eastern carriers have asked the commission to grant in the shape of increased rates.

"If the commission should grant rates so as to yield six percent upon the aggregate book property investment amount, by that measure also, the increase in rates would produce about $520,000,000 for the roads in the eastern region.

"In 1916 the combined property investment account of the 38 principal roads in the east was about $7,000,000,000. Mr. Willard asserted, and their earnings were $148,000,000, or 2.1 percent. However, if the same roads were to do the same business today, paying wages and prices now in effect, he contended they would fall short $12,800,000,000 of earning their actual operating expenses and taxes.

Revenues Of Eastern Railroads Must Be Increased Millions, Says Head Of Baltimore And Ohio

The Markets

NEW YORK STOCKS

NEW YORK, May 24.—Trading was quiet and featureless at the opening of today's stock market, leaders recording only fractional advances and declines from last week's final prices.

Within the first half hour, however, selling of oil, steel, equipments and motors caused a general reaction. Mexican Petroleum lost 1 point, Crucible Steel 2, Baldwin Locomotive 1 1/2 and United States Steel and Studbaker 1 point each. Local credit conditions were confusing, the improved showing of the federal reserve bank being offset by a large decrease of clearing house reserves.

Reveries of 1 to 2 points succeeded in the first half hour, but these were cancelled when liquidation of oil became more extensive. Mexicans increased their initial losses and with active work for shares dropped 2 to 6 points. Steels were subjected to further pressure, Crucible, the leader of another drive, losing six points, while Republic and Vanadium declined 3 points each. Reversals limited at 1 to 2 point reaction. American woolen was weak.

East of the prominent specialties, long 3 points. A six percent opening rate for call money and the steadiness of foreign exchange exerted little influence.

Business on the stock exchange today continued to reflect the many uncertainties attending the financial and industrial situation. Reactionary tendencies prevailed throughout the session. Sales approximated 700,000.

CHICAGO GRAIN AND PROVISIONS

CHICAGO, May 24.—Prices took an upward swing in the corn market today, influenced by scarcity of offerings. Opening prices, which varied from 1 1/2 to 1 3/4, were followed by decided gains all around.

Oats were higher in sympathy with corn. After opening 1 cent off to 1 1/2 cent advance, including July at 55 1/2 to 56 1/2, the market scored a general upturn.

Weakness in hog values had a depressing effect on provisions. Demand was lacking.

WEATHER BUREAU CHIEF INVENTS WEATHER-OBSERVING INSTRUMENT

Prof. Charles F. Marvin and his meteorograph.

Prof. Charles F. Marvin, chief of the United States weather bureau, is the inventor of a new self-recording weather-observing instrument called a meteorograph. The instrument automatically indicates various changes in weather conditions at any altitude. It is lifted into the air by a large box kite secured to earth by a piano wire having of great tensile strength. The wire is fed from a steel drum containing eight or ten miles of wire.

Frequently at the six box kite stations maintained by the bureau as many as ten kites are operated on one line. One outfit broke away from the Georgia station and helplessly entangled a mile in a cotton field. After three men had released the mile the meteorograph was found unharmed.

Studying the upper air by the use of this instrument with kites has largely displaced the expensive balloons formerly maintained. The information is used as a basis for forecasts as well as for the guidance of the government's airplanes.

All Stars Defeat Cincinnati Urichos 4 To 3, Eleven Innings

PENNY ANTE

Introducing A Parchesi-Hound

The Greatest Game Of Season Staged At Millbrook Park, Banner Crowd Was Present

Before the largest crowd of the season, the All Stars, viewed in this locality as one of the best semi-pro teams in the entire country, won a terrific eleven round battle from the Urichos of Cincinnati at Millbrook Park Sunday afternoon, by the score of 4 to 3. The All Stars had the Urichos two men out, none on the bases and two strikes on the batter in the ninth inning when three hits followed in rapid succession, one of which was a double and the visitors drove in a couple of runs, or one more than the hosts. The All Stars, deeply charged at this turn of the game, came in for the last half of the ninth and tied the count in a double knock-out. They held the visitors firmly from then on and in the eleventh showed the necessary marker across the rubber, sending the fans home in a dippy mood of humor and bringing to a close one of the greatest games of this or any other season.

The Urichos, who were highly touted, lived up to all the good things said about them. Especially is this true of Marcus, the three fingered southpaw. This fellow is some pitcher and it was through no fault of his that his team received the short end of the decision. He is as cool as an iceberg and moves up with the cunning of an old slinger. It is little wonder that Scott Higg Doyle nailed him for a trial with the higher ups. So well pleased were the fans and so thoroughly delighted was Owner Galdeman with the showing of the visitors that he has looked them for a return engagement later on in the season, when the stands will be taxed to their capacity.

The "B" Bangham worked for the Urichos and he did a ugly job of it until the ninth inning, when the visitors gauged his delivery for those all-star mentioned hits. After the ninth, Eddie Donalds went in and the big fellow was at the height of the form that made him a terror to the batters in the Texas League. The visitors could not see his offerings and swung like rusty gates. He fanned three batters, forced two of them to roll to the box and got the sixth man to face him on a little fly to the outfield. Eddie has thus qualified as a dependable relief hurler.

While Bangham twirled a fine game, nevertheless it was due to his hitting that the first runs were scored by the locals. If "Doc" could hit as well as the Seventeenth street yards as he does at Millbrook Park, Solway stock would go to 300. He got a double and single, and thus spoiled all the plans of the Urichos, capably managed by Mr. Simms, a very clever gentleman and a strong rooter for his nine.

A wreath of garlands should be placed around the classic brow of "Irish" Conwell, who was the man of the hour so far as delivering the Jack Dempsey punch. It was in the eleventh inning that "Irish" made history. Two men were out, when Mr. Hyck, an Arch Deceiver in the Industrial League, who had taken the place of Valentin after the latter had turned his ankle, singled to middle and stole second as slick as a whistle. Conwell was very deliberate at the bat. He looked over the first one, for the second one go by, but connected fairly with Marcus' third offering, driving a clean single to right sending Monk across the plate with the winning run.

The game would not have proceeded into extra innings had Catcher Monk of the locals gotten two ounces more behind a punch he delivered. In the sixth inning, Barber was on first, but was doubled up on Doherty's fly to right. Monk hid back his ears when he came to the rubber and drove a terrific hit to left. The ball struck the fence ten feet from the top and Monk was held at first, due to the fact that he had missed the cushion in making the turn. Two feet more and it would have been a home run. Monk is playing a great game behind the plate, hitting hard and timely and putting popper everywhere and anywhere.

Among the drivers entered are: Thomas and Howard W. Goss, all previous winners at Indianapolis, Cliff Duran, Louis Gaston, and Arthur Chevrolet, Roscoe Scales, Joe Ray Howard, Tommy Milton, Almy, Murphy, Eddie O'Donnell, 230 lbs. Maurice Tom Rooney, Andie Hollett, Jean Porporato, Jack Scales, Ira Vail, J. D. Hines, C. G. Howard, Ralph Mofford, Jean Casagran, Art Kline, Kurt Hike, Willie Haupt, Frank Elliott and Wabbe Stein. Barney Gifford, veteran auto racer, will pace the race leading the field with a 1918 Buick sedan. The first lap.

The most famous field of drivers that ever faced a starter is expected to line up at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway at 10 o'clock Monday, May 31, for the start of the eighth international automobile sweepstakes.

The record breaking advance sent safe indications that the largest and most representative audience ever assembled for a racing event will be present when the bomb is sent up announcing the getaway of the premier pilots of two continents in the great test racing classic in all the world for the largest purse ever offered, $50,000.

More important than the prize, purse or the thrills that will be furnished thousands will be the fact that the first time in history, machines of 180 cubic inches piston displacement and 1600 pounds weight will be seen in racing competition. The first lap.

The Miracle Men dropped a bomb when the infield began to boot the ball breaker in Jackson Sunday. Being all over the lot, Wells and Sullivan moved out in the ninth inning, 7 to 6, toward the local battery. Manager Up to the fatal ninth the Miracle Men Giron will take his team back to had a three run lead, which faded Jackson for a return engagement.

Stars Beat Russell Team

Manager Fred Herfeld's Rosemount Stars visited Russell, Ky., Sunday, and won a fast game from the team representing that place, the locals winning by the score of 5 to 3. Wilford, on the mound for the Stars, was master of the Russell fans all the way through the game. Blake at second, Selinger at third, Mason in middle and Weber catching, played splendid ball for the Stars.

Materials in Wren's Nest

The wren carries a lot of material to the box or hole cavity in which the nest is constructed. If the box in which wrens are building is a foot square they will fill it full of material—straw and grass and hair and fiber of one kind or another. They do not use any mud, as the robins do.

REDS CANNOT WIN ON LAST SEASON'S REPUTATION; MUST PLAY THE GAME

Now comes the story that there is a serious discussion among the ranks of the Reds.

Old Man Rumer has it that Groh and Kopf do not speak and that Roush is not on speaking terms with Neale or Hargan and that Manager Pat Moran is having his troubles.

This may be the tenth, but the Reds are going up against better teams than last year and this is the main reason why the club has not been winning so regularly. Take the Giants for instance. Who will deny that McGraw has a first class ball club? Where is it? Why down in the second division. Is this caused by dissension? Tommyrot. The Reds must play out ball to win, not mere flashes of their last season's form. They can't win this year on their good work of last. They must realize this, and when they do, they will mow down their opponents. The native ability is there, Manager Moran has the same old cunning and the players are full of pep but the other teams have been reinforced, and are out to give the Reds a great run for their money.

HARLEY WILL HELP COACH O. S. U.

COLUMBUS, O., May 24.—Refusing several flattering offers from other universities, Charles W. ("Chick") Harley, Ohio State football star and All-American selection, has decided to join the coaching staff of his alma mater, Harley will begin his duties in the fall. The announcement that Harley would remain at Ohio State was gratifying to followers of the Buckeye squad. Just what his duties will mainly consist of remains to be determined, but it is expected he will do some considerable of his time to the freshmen in the art of running down punts, drop-kicking, handling the ball, and other tricks of the game which made him a gridiron sensation.

CARPENTIER WILL MEET LEVINSKY

NEW YORK, May 24.—George Carpentier and Battling Levinsky, New York, American light heavyweight title holder have agreed to meet in a 12 or 15 round bout 175 ringside on Tuesday July 26, it was announced here today.

MANUFACTURER'S LEAGUE

Tonight in the Manufacturers' League the Vulcan Last Company's team will clash with the Leet Lumber Company's nine. This will be the first time these two teams have met and a close game is anticipated, as the teams are about evenly matched.

Manager Belcher, of the Vulcan team, has had his players practicing since they were defeated last Monday at the hands of the Express bats, and this week intends to make up for the lost game. On Tuesday evening the Express team will have as their opponents, the Mitchell Manufacturing Company's nine.

All games will be played on the York Park diamond this week, as the grounds are now being put in first class condition.

Alfred Felton in his shell and inset of Ernest Barry.

Add Alfred Felton, world's professional sculling champion, to the list of athletic champions who stick to their game after coping the title instead of dashing up to a movie mogul's office with their newly won crown and a lot of clippings. Felton, an Australian, won the title from Ernest Barry, English sculler, a few months ago. Now Felton has signed up to give Barry a chance to regain the lost honor.

Reds Are In Real Slump

The Reds are in the midst of a slump. They have dropped three in a row, being blanked Sunday by the Braves 7 to 0. It was a runaway victory for the Braves team, which is again playing fine ball. Moran's pitchers are not coming through as strongly as they did last year.

Many persons may not know that the scent and flavor of lemon peel reside in minute cells, close to the surface of the fruit, and that by slicing it thin they will cut through these innumerable cells and thus obtain double the quantity of the essential oil that could be procured by anyone careless of this fact. The cells being cut through, it follows that a great part of the oil remains on the white of the lemon. This is easily abstracted by rubbing a lump of sugar over it.

Where He Shows

Chester was slow in wit, but he appreciated the aptness of speech in one of his playmates, evidently, for when asked why he was anxious to be in Jack's company so much he replied, "Oh, everything he says has a kick in it."

Should Be Universal Custom

The New Zealand Infant has the privilege of selecting its own name. This is accomplished by a long string of names being repeated to the child until it cries or gives forth a sneeze, which is taken as a sign that the last name uttered is the one chosen.

Wedding Ring Once Banned

The Puritans of the seventeenth century used to ring at the wedding ceremony, as they considered it "a pagan symbol and superstitious contrivance." All that they required was that the man and woman should join hands when stating their purpose to "live together in wedlock."

What Players Are Doing With War Clubs

CHICAGO, Ill., May 24.—Oscar "Happy" Felsch, Chicago outfielder, has entered into "competition with the" Ruth of New York, the home run king of baseball, for the honor of leading in circuit drives in the American League. "Happy" cracked out his 5th home run in the game against Boston, Wednesday, giving him a tie in two days and placing him in the lead with the New York slinger. Each has made five homers, according to averages released today and including games of Wednesday. Most of Ruth's homers were made on the Polo grounds where the field is short. Those of the Chicago fly-catcher were the clean drives.

There is a merry race on the Washington club between Ruth and Rice for the honor of being the leading base stealer. Rice has pilfered eleven bases and Ruth ten.

To Cobb, the Detroit star, is gradually finding his batting eye and has boosted his average to .277. Ruth is batting .260.

Johnson of Cleveland widened the gap between himself and Jackson of Chicago among the batters who have participated in ten or more games. Jackson added a few points to his average of last week, while Jackson topped a few points. Johnson is playing the list with an average of .317, while Jackson is hitting .350.

Other leading batters: Kinney, Philadelphia, .361; Gelson, St. Louis, .361; Gerber, St. Louis, .350; Felsch, Chicago, .352; Hendryx, Boston, .349; Jacobson, St. Louis, .348; Siler, St. Louis, .348; Weaver, Chicago, .343; Dugan, Philadelphia, .337; Peckinpaugh, New York, .325; Spunker, Cleveland, .319.

The St. Louis National League club is in third place in team batting, with an average of .293 and is ranked in last place in the percentage of games won and lost, according to averages published today, and which include Wednesday's games. Only one member of the club is hitting in the .3000 class, and this is Rogers Hornsby, the star keystone sack, guardian, who is the runner up to Nicholson of Pittsburgh.

Nicholson is leading the regulars with an average of .362 captured in 14 games. Hornsby, in 25 games, in which he has been at bat 101 times, has cracked out forty-two hits for a total of fifty-seven bases, which include eight doubles, two triples and a homer for an average of .418. He is being pushed by Herbie Groh, captain of the Cincinnati World's Champions, who is training with .408.

Jack Paskert, the veteran outfielder of the Chicago Cubs, has joined his teammate, Robertson, and Cy Williams of Philadelphia for home run homers. The trip is tied with three apiece.

Max Carey, the fleet-footed outfielder of Pittsburgh, is showing the way to the base stealers with twelve thefts.

Other leading batters: Henry, Columbus, .334; Tincup, Louisville, .337; Gainer, Milwaukee, .333; O'Mara, Indianapolis, .330; Dyer, Toledo, .317; Elmer Miller, St. Paul, .314; Honline, Indianapolis, .313; Hartley, Columbus, .305.

Maybe Jawn'll Have to Bat For Hitless Wonders

Guest manager snatched recently during infield practice at "Joe grounds."

If the Giants persist in staying in the second division and if McGraw doesn't draw too many suspensions, the Giant manager may feel like getting into the game as a pinch hitter himself. Jawn looks formidable enough when he strikes a batting attitude. How's the old hitting eye, Jawn?

Cardinals Are Blanked

Greynip landed a stinging defeat to the Cardinals of this city Sunday afternoon, when the local team, instead of that fair village with thoughts of showing the Greynip nine how to play ball, Jacobs and Reiser worked for the Cardinals. The Kentuckians won 10 to 0.

Will Play Cardinals

Next Sunday the Rosemount Stars will play the Cardinals on the Industrial League diamond at Sixteenth and Fifth streets. On Monday, Decoration Day, the stars will go to Peoria, Lawrence county, to play morning and afternoon.

THE Senate investigating committee will begin taking testimony today on presidential expenses.

This inquiry is based on rather loose accusations made by other candidates and their managers, aimed particularly at General Wood. Not much can be expected as to the outcome. No doubt, a considerable sum, much more than the law should allow, was spent in the interest of Wood, but at that it was not an unusual sum.

The committee, which is of unusual calibre, in so far as the public standing of its members is concerned, will therefore be unable to go any further than a lame law allows, and will, perhaps, offer some conclusions that would be valuable, if put into law and made effective, but in this latter qualification lies all the trouble, not the source, but the failure to dry up at the source, the flood of political evil. Political expenditures should be limited down to actual necessities. No outlay ought to be allowed except for open and evidently honorable activities. So long as there are vast means to be used for purposes not definitely and particularly designated, so long will there be corruption and prostitution of suffrage.

It is hard to draw the line on what is and what is not legitimate outlay, but it can be drawn and the narrower it is fixed on state expenditures the better it will be. No matter how apparently fit a candidate may be, no matter how much superior personally to those opposing him, when large sums of money are brought to bear in compassing his nomination and election, the country is bound to suffer by it in the long run.

The voters will not recognize these things for themselves. Therefore the greater call for those chosen to set for the voters to protect them both by legislation and by seeing the legislation is made operative.

HAS ITS LIMITS ANYWAY

MR. H has been said of the waste and extravagance of this country.

The ill-repute has reached abroad and in divers ways the foreigner is seeking to fatten upon it. He isn't finding the American, however, the rich fool, ever ready to part with his money that he assumes him to be, rather one who spends it in his own way and mood.

This was shown the other day, effectively, let it be hoped, when a lot of trappings from the throne of former Emperor Wilhelm were offered at public auction in New York. The projectors counted upon a rich harvest. To an expert eye the royal junk was worth $30,000 and there ought to be, it was figured, a clean up of a hundred thousand or two upon it. Imagine the disappointment, when, after a copious flow of free publicity the mob of wealth failed to flock to the auction and all that could be extracted out of it was less than one-seventh of the valuation of the offerings.

The promoters forgot one thing and that is in this land there isn't much use for "a dead one," unless he has been under the sod a matter of a dozen centuries or so, and the populace knows little about him. A live failure and has been never gets the coin.

THE NATURE OF THE BEAST

A thousand times has come the answer, the leopard can not change his spots.

But the world oft forget that. It forgot when the answer came that Francisco Villa, fierce beast of the Mexican jungles, approved so heartily of the latest revolution, that he would give it his blessing and then retire to his hacienda, never more to trouble to plunder and assassinate, incidentally toppling over governments. It took him at the stated word, it believed the beast would change its nature.

His learning better. Villa is qualifying his endorsement, splitting it half, as it were. He favors the overthrow of the Carranza government, but that doesn't mean he has gone out of his old badness, not at all. If over the dead body of Carranza there was a rule that suits him then he is agreeable; but if it doesn't, well, it's different.

Not just imagine, if you can, what sort of government and even would please the creature that hides in the forest in the day and creeps upon its prey in the night time.

Well, there is only this much of encouragement. Oregon seems to be determined as the next ruler of Mexico and had as the surest off to there seems to be some hope in that, at least as it applies to him who may well be called the Mexican Monster. Once upon a sound thrashing, even in the days when the law was his zenith. He ought to be able to do better now. He isn't true that his name is actually O'Brien.

A telegram from Eton, England, says the women in the rural districts are to be allowed to smoke to keep them in good temper and as an antidote to a badly ventilated room. We have sought out the kernel in that bit of news and we think we have found it. Notice it is only the women that are permitted to smoke, presumably men are not, as one purpose of the permit is to antidote a badly ventilated room and if the males were smoking that would answer the purpose. The other two purposes are to put the females in a good humor and to expedite business. There we have it—smoking is conducive to silence and running true to sex the fair ones would do the most talking—less talk and more business.

The DIARY OF AN ENGAGED GIRL

THE LURE OF THE GYPSY LIFE

Yate, the Jude is playing tricks on me. I fear. Up to a few months ago I was fairly well sure of myself—and now I'm a little bit becoming more and more of a gypsy. I'm a little bit becoming more and more of a gypsy. I'm a little bit becoming more and more of a gypsy.

I have about decided that I am a gypsy. I'm a little bit becoming more and more of a gypsy. I'm a little bit becoming more and more of a gypsy. I'm a little bit becoming more and more of a gypsy.

I wish that I were a gypsy, and could go wandering all over the country, untroubled by God or man. That is the ideal life, I think. To roam all day untroubled, and to sleep at night beneath a gloriously deep midnight sky, anywhere, and sleep the sleep that never comes to the human being in a straight, untroubled, old bed in a corner room, at any time. And then to wake up, early, wondering, with tears in the eyes, the morning, with tears in the eyes, the morning, with tears in the eyes.

As it is, I wake with a bang every morning. Gaze recently at the blue curtains of my window, so inviting and neat (even though I do really love them). They annoy me because they are so unchanging. I should like to wake to new surroundings every day, but what's the good of wishing? The house of New York salutes me at the same hour every morning. I arise, bathe and putter about until breakfast time. Even the breakfast is unchanging, and leaves me comforted but staid. Alas, comfort is the enemy of the modern times. Comfort catches you when you least expect it, and weakens you in your strongest spots. We dream and dream of the fantastic

WHO'S WHO In The Days News

GOV. WILLIAM C. SPROUL. Although Gov. William C. Sprout of Pennsylvania recently joined with Senator Penrose in recommending the nomination of Senator Knox for the presidency at the Chicago convention, friends of Sprout believe that he and not Knox has the best chance to win.

Gov. Sprout

Knox, it is pointed out, is not strong with the progressive element of the Republican party in the west. Sprout, on the other hand, is said to be regarded by the publican progressives with favor. His assertion of independence of Penrose, the Pennsylvania boss, and the frequently reported friction between them, are all to the credit of the Keystone governor in western eyes. The recent appointment of Clifford Pinchot as chief forester of Pennsylvania by Sprout is said to be particularly objectionable to Senator Penrose. For there remains certain of Johnson's followers say that if there is a deadlock the Californian's delegates are more likely to go to Sprout than to Knox.

BIRDS THAT SING GRAND OPERA AIRS INSURED FOR TEN THOUSAND DOLLARS

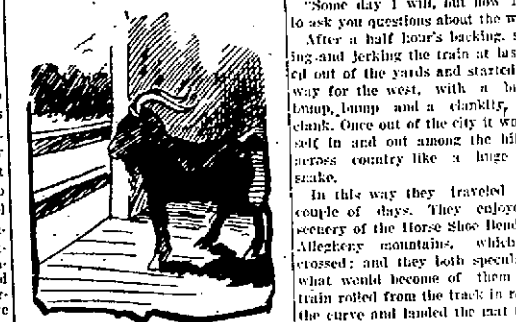

Mrs. Tartone and her valuable "Turpie" birds.

Mrs. Pierre Tartone, wife of the celebrated artist, recently brought from South America two "Turpie" birds of gorgeous plumage, which she has had insured for $10,000. The birds were secured from a cannibal tribe in Columbia, the states, and are able to sing grand opera airs.

BILLY WHISKERS

BY FRANCES TREGO MONTGOMERY

When Billy Jr. heard Mr. Winthrop's boots walking all to pieces, he said to the man from the west he had: "Hurrah! Hurrah! Papa Billy! and Mamma Nanny, come here and hear what glorious news I have for you. I am going west tomorrow. Nanny nearly fainted when she heard the news. It was so sudden and even staid old Billy Whiskers shed a tear when he thought of his gallant young son leaving them just forever. While as for Billy he just rolled over on the ground and cried, but was soon comforted by a handsome young goat only a few months older than himself.

True to his word, Mr. Whiskers, the western gentleman, sent his man for Billy Jr. Just before dark, and when the goats saw him come through the gate preparatory to leading Billy Jr. off, they all gathered round to say a last farewell, and old Billy, Nanny and Day all followed him to the gate and watched him with streaming eyes through the palings until he was out of sight. The man led Billy Jr. into a freight car with the westerner's horse.

Star.
Hello, Mr. Billy Jr. Glad I can have you as a companion. You did not expect to have such good luck as this when last I saw you. You will find

The Rain
It isn't raining rain to me,
It's raining daffodils;
To every daffodil I see
To every daffodil I see
Wild flowers on the hills.

A cloud of gray engulfs the day
And overwhelms the town—
It isn't raining rain to me—
It's raining roses down.

It isn't raining rain to me,
But fields of clover bloom,
Where my lacewing has been
May find a bed and room.

A health, then, to the happy,
A fig to him who frets!
It isn't raining rain to me—
It's raining violets!

It isn't clouds and mist I see,
It's leaves and fruit and flowers;
It's hands stretched out as if with glee
To greet the summer showers.

It's little thirsty months to fill,
It's buds and blossoms dear;
It isn't raining rain to me—
It's raining life and cheer.

New-York - Day - By - Day

BY O. O. MINTYRE

NEW YORK, May 24.—A page from the diary of a modern Samuel Pepys, up exceedingly early, rows brought to my bedside that a thief had made off with my typewriter and they brought the rogue but we got him away before the police came, thank heaven. Karl Kitchen came to say fare well before taking a barque for Paris for his journal.

This day I first began to go forth in my Norfolk suit as the manner now among gentlemen is. And very notably, I hear that Maud Adams, the play actress, is in poor health. All the morning making my accounts and finding myself to be clear several pounds, which is mightily pleasing.

"Some day I will, but now I want to ask you questions about the west." After a half hour's backing, switching and jerking the train at last moved out for the west, with a bump, bump, bump and a clank, clank, clank. Once out of the city it wound its way through the hills and across country like a huge brown snake.

In this way they traveled for a couple of days. They enjoyed the scenery of the Horse Shoe Bend in the Allegheny mountains, which they crossed; and they both speculated on what would become of them if the train rolled from the track in rounding the curve and landed the rest of the foot of the mountain thousands of feet below. Through the stars of the car that had been left open they could see the country through which they passed and they stood and looked until children got in their eyes and they grew too tired to stand still.

Silenced
A young fellow who married a rich man's daughter was in the habit of troubling his father-in-law with complaints about his wife's behavior.
"Really, this is too bad," cried the irascible old gentleman one day after son-in-law had told of new domestic difficulties. "If I hear of any more complaints I will disinherit her."

Frank A. Munsey, who has now added the Gordon-Bennett newspapers to his long string, is a very critical player, and many a clean sweep occurs in his various offices.

Greek King Marries Boyhood Sweetheart

PARIS, May 24.—King Alexander of Greece, is reported here to have been married to his boyhood sweetheart, the daughter of a former aide to his father, King Constantine.

The Greek legation in Paris has refused to confirm or deny this report. King Alexander's marriage is said to have been the culmination of a boyhood friendship, and occurred before he was in a direct line to the throne and while his chances for succeeding his father appeared most remote.

The king and his wife are living at the same hotel here, and yesterday went to Versailles, where they lunched together and visited the gardens.

Reports here repeat the king's visit to Paris to a desire on the part of Premier Voulas, of Greece, for a separation of the king from his repudiated wife, so that he may marry a princess of royal blood. The king is said to have left Athens quite in accord with his premier's point of view but is declared to have undergone a change of mind since his arrival here.

The marriage ceremony, it is asserted, was performed by a priest of the Greek church, but was not recorded by the metropolitan of Athens, the supreme ecclesiastical authority in Greece. This is the explanation for the fact that no record of the ceremony is available.

WEATHER BUREAU CHIEF INVENTS WEATHER-OBSERVING INSTRUMENT

Prof. Charles F. Marvin and his meteorograph.

Prof. Charles F. Marvin, chief of the United States weather bureau, is the inventor of a new self-recording weather-observing instrument called a meteorograph. The instrument automatically indicates various changes in weather conditions at any altitude. It is lifted into the air by a large box kite secured to earth by a piano wire strong of great tensile strength. The wire is fed from a steel drum containing eight or ten miles of wire.

Frequently at the six kite stations maintained by the bureau as many as ten kites are operated on one line. One outfit broke away from the Georgia station and helplessly entangled a mile in a cotton field. After three men had released the kite the meteorograph was found unharmed.

Striding the upper air by the use of this instrument with kites has largely displaced the expensive balloons formerly maintained. The information is used as a basis for forecasts as well as for the guidance of the government's airplanes.

Walks Long Distance To Secure Assistance, Only Slightly Injured

MONTAGIS, FRANCE, May 24.—Paul Deschanel, president of the French republic, fell from a window of his train when it was a short distance from here last night.

The train was moving at the time, but after his fall M. Deschanel walked a mile and a quarter in the darkness until he met a track worker.

The workman accompanied the president to a signal station nearby and telephoned to this city for an automobile which arrived within half an hour.

When he approached the track worker the injured man said: "I was on the presidential train and fell out of it while it was moving. That which will surprise you more, however, is the fact I am a descendant of Deschanel, president of the republic."

M. Deschanel upon his arrival here received first medical attention some two or three hours after the accident. Physicians found he had suffered no injuries sufficient to cause anxiety, although he was bruised and lacerated. As a precautionary measure, anti-tetanus serum was injected by a surgeon.

The other two purposes are to put the females in a good humor and to expedite business. There we have it—smoking is conducive to silence and running true to sex the fair ones would do the most talking—less talk and more business.

The DIARY OF AN ENGAGED GIRL

THE LURE OF THE GYPSY

Life. Fate, the Jade is playing tricks on me, I fear. Up to a few months ago I was fairly well sure of myself—and now? In a! Becoming more unsure of my heart and head each day.

I have about decided that I am a little of the gypsy, and a little of the one known as Lindsey; in fact, I'm sure this is the case, and the reason for my being such a vagabond, float-away little girl. The lamp and slow fire of summer has been in my veins for days now, and the family must find me hard to live with, poor Jess.

I wish that I were a gypsy, and could go wandering all over the countryside unquestioned by God or man. That is the ideal life, I think. To roam all day unrestrained, and to lie down at night beneath a gloriously deep midnight sky, anywhere, and sleep the sleep that never comes to the human being in a straight, up-to-date bed in a correct room, and any time. And then to wake slowly, wonderfully, and refreshed in the cool of the morning, with burra in your hair, and the bit of the lark in your ear. Happy! Yes, that is my ideal of true rest and happiness.

As it is I wake with a bang every morning. Gave recently at the blue curtains at my window, so inevitable and most (even though I do really love them). They annoy me because they are so unchangeable. I should like to wake to new surroundings every day, but what's the good of wishing? The boom of New York salutes me at the same hour every morning. I arise bathed and putter about until breakfast time. Even the breakfast is unchanging, and leaves me comforted but rodder. Alas, comfort is the enemy of the modern times. Comfort catches you when you least expect it, and weakens you in your strongest spots. We dream and dream of the fantastic and the free, until some form of comfort appears on our gilded horizon and lures us back to the practical and sane side of life. How many dreams of mine have been dispelled by the inevitable Chinese dinner gong! I have long since lost count of same. And yet no one answers so gleefully as Miss Lindsey to herself to the lure of smoking sticks, and all the creature comforts.

Never mind, some day I will a va grant me, and drift down the world to the throbbing of my own desires. Just wait.

Just at present my dreams seem to be bound up in one man. That man is Jack, and it is quite as it should be. I was a model engaged girl (so they think). But inwardly I am raging at many things. I am slowly waking to my own nature and needs, and I feel that somewhere in the dim, dear future there lies a land of promise, waiting for my lightest footstep, beckoning me across Time and Space, and whispering of new hopes, golden fancies of love, and urging me above all else to be true to myself, even though the wiles and force of a cruel civilization try to avert me to ways and days foreign to my real nature. It is this conviction that keeps me up, for I know that one day I will evolve, and that all I am going through now, and am planning to go through with in the hazy state of matrimony are but stepping stones to the land beyond the rainbow. Experience, the great teacher, must cure my life at this point, and I must how to her will come what may.

I hear some one calling me, so must stop my "musing" for this morning. (To be continued.)

BIRDS THAT SING GRAND OPERA AIRS INSURED FOR TEN THOUSAND DOLLARS

GOV. WILLIAM C. SPROUL. Although Gov. William C. Sproul of Pennsylvania recently joined with Senator Penrose in recommending the nomination of Senator Knox for the presidency at the Chicago convention, friends of Sproul believe that he and not Knox has the best chance to win.

"Knox, it is pointed out, is not strong with the progressive element of the Republican party in the west. Sproul, on the other hand, is said to be regarded by Republican progressives with favor. His suggestion of independence of Penrose, the Pennsylvania boss, and the frequently reported friction between them, are all to the credit of the Keystone governor in western eyes. The recent appointment of Gifford Pinchot as chief forester of Pennsylvania by Sproul, is said to be particularly objectionable to Senator Penrose. For these reasons certain of Johnson's followers say that if there is a deadlock the Californian's delegates are more likely to go to Sproul than to Knox.

BILLY WHISKERS

FRANCES TREGO MONTGOMERY

When Billy Jr. heard Mr. Windastid's legs walking all to pieces, he said to the man from the west: "It certainly does," answered Billy. "I'm sure it does," said Billy Jr. "The piece of luck is beyond my greatest expectations."

Just then the train gave a jerk for Billy Jr. off his feet. It was son enough, and bumped Star's nose against the end of the car.

"Well, I never!" said Billy Jr. "This young man leaving these 'perhaps' for ever. While as for my self, I just rolled over on the ground and cried, but was soon comforted by a handsome young man only a few months older than myself."

True to his word, Mr. Whisker, the western gentleman, sent his man for Billy Jr. Just before dark, and when the goats saw him come through the gate preparatory to leading Billy Jr. off, they all gathered round to say a last farewell, and old Billy, Nanny and Day all followed him to the gate and watched him with streaming eyes through the pallid mist he was out of sight. The man led Billy Jr. to the depot and there he was put into a freight car with the western's horse, Star.

Hello, Mr. Billy Jr. Glad I am to have you as a companion. You did not expect to have such good luck as this when last I saw you. You will find

The Rain

It isn't raining rain to me. It's raining daffodils. In every dumping drop I see wild flowers on the hills.

A cloud of gray engulfs the day And overwhelms the town— It isn't raining rain to me— It's raining roses down.

It isn't raining rain to me. But fields of clover bloom. Where my love's concerning her May find a bed and room.

A death, then, to the happy. A life to him who frets! It isn't raining rain to me— It's raining violets!

It isn't clouds and mists I see. It's leaves and fruit and flowers; It's hands stretched out as if with glee To greet the summer showers.

It's little thirsty mouths to fill. It's buds and blossoms dear; It isn't raining rain at all. It's raining life and cheer.

New-York - Day - By - Day

BY O. O. MONTGOMERY

NEW YORK, May 24.—A page from the diary of a modern Samuel Pepys, the diary of a thief had made off with my typewriter and they brought the typewriter back but we got him away before the police came, thank Providence. Karl Kitchen came to say farewell before taking a barque for Paris, well before taking a barque for Paris, well before taking a barque for Paris.

This day I first began to go forth in my Norfolk suit as the manner now among gentlemen is. And very noble, I hear that Maud Adams, the play actress, is in poor health. All the morning making up accounts and finding myself to be clear several pounds, which is mightily pleasing.

In the evening Misses Anne and H. MacLennan came and H. and I sang Gilbert and Sullivan tunes, and then to the apothecary for frozen cream and so to bed.

Quite Antique

A visitor going through a rug factory stepped beside an American who was busy playing his shuttle. "You make antique rugs, too?" he inquired.

"Oh, yes," was the glowing reply. "My rug when first finished is 200 years old."—Boston Transcript.

No Doubt of That

"You seem obsessed." "I'm obsessed with love." "Marriage will sober you up," all right.

In The Crowd

"You're in a pickle in this jam," shrilled the first old lady. "Heaven preserve us," moaned the other.

An Indulgence

"The prices in this fashionable restaurant are very steep." "May be that is why so many clubmen are to be seen here."

The Verdict

"Do you think my son is now ripe for musical honors?" "Ripe. No, sir, he's rotten."

Worry Over

Hogg—Wrote a ballad on my cat the other day. What would you advise me to do with it? Hogg—Send it to the laundry.—London Tit-Bits.

Silenced

A young fellow who married a rich man's daughter was in the habit of troubling his father-in-law with complaints about his wife's behavior. "Really, this is too bad!" cried the grizzled old gentleman one day after a quarrel had led to new domestic afflictions. "If I hear of any more complaints I will disinherit her." There were no more.

Nothing pleases a henpecked husband as much as to have a daughter grow up and drive her mother out of the house. Who remembers when we used to throw our hands at the price of the first strawberries?

When a woman who said her name was Grace Malone and that she was 21 years old, took "French leave" from Hempstead Hospital Sunday evening, the police were unable to locate her and are at a loss to figure, how the girl disappeared so quickly.

She was brought to police headquarters in an apparently unconscious condition in a machine by three men, who told the police that they had seen her fall in front of the Gilbert Grocery Company's place on Second street. They placed her in a machine and brought her to police headquarters.

An examination held by Dr. W. E. Gault of the police station disclosed that the woman presumably was suffering from poisoning.

The woman said iodine had been poured down her throat while she was held captive in a cell on the West Side.

The police at first believed this story, but when the woman recovered rapidly during the day and later walked away from the hospital, they did not put much credence in her story. It is believed that the woman had a girl friend with her and she disappeared from the machine when it was stopped near Second and Washington streets Sunday morning. The police are trying to learn where the machine had been before coming to the city.

Crying For Luck.
If the first person you meet as you are going to work is a woman, you will have no luck that day! Such was once the strong belief of Chinese miners. This curious example of racial superstition is mentioned by Mr. Charles T. Gorham, who recalled others in his recent lecture on the subject. It was considered unlucky, for instance, for a woman to "ret the New Year in." A woman who read the marriage service through in its entirety before her marriage was said to be fated to spinsterhood. It was also unlucky for a bride not to shed tears on her wedding day, whilst it also brought ill-luck to marry in May. A double share of ill-luck was promised for those who wed during Lent.

There is in the northern part of Finland a curious stone which serves the people instead of a barometer. This stone, which the Finns call "Ilmakuoli," means black or a blackish gray when bad weather is approaching. Fine weather has the effect of turning it almost white. The Finns regard the stone with superstitious reverence, but the scientists say that its change in color are due to salts contained in its composition.
